The problem statement should be written in language that everyone in the school or community is able to understand.	Provide more detail about why your project will be beneficial to your school. Be sure to mention the Core Principle your project aligns with.	Who do you need to ask for help to move this project forward? List all teachers, students, and advisors who you may need to talk with as well as their role in the project. Ex: Mrs. Smith – Will help assist with finding correct incentives for project	Items Needed (with cost $) Materials: Brief Description (Total Cost) Other: Brief Description (Total Cost)	What are the key things that have to happen to start project? What is your timeline? Make sure to include marketing. Be sure to separate your activities DATE: Activity DATE: Activity	What will your activities result in? This column should correspond with the Activities column.	This column should have what your expectations are about completing the project. How many people would you like to see participate? What will happen when you complete the project.	How will you know if your project was a success? How will you ask teachers/students about their thoughts on the project? How can this project be duplicated in another school or another year?
